LIVER HEALTH IS PUBLIC HEALTH

#RAREAWARE

#RareAware is a campaign in February, rare liver diseases month, that shines a spotlight on the patients and families that face the least common rare liver diseases.

We Bolster Research

Whether it's helping patients find clinical trials, advocating for federal funding, or gathering experts to discuss the future of liver disease, we advance research as a critical tool to support tomorrow's liver health.

We Redesign Care

Our NASH, Liver Cancers, & Pediatric and Rare Liver Diseases Councils convene more than 200 stakeholders, including patient advocates, clinical researchers, industry leaders, and more, to identify priorities in the field and make progress that makes sense to everyone.

The gaps in liver health advocacy have resulted in 1.5 billion people living with liver diseases, most of whom are undiagnosed, undertreated, and over-stigmatized. I know because I am one of these people.

Donna R. Cryer, founder, CEO and 28-year liver transplant survivor
